Portal '43

Music for Our Morale

Models for the Air Corps

*Mr. Carrier,
Rationing Expert*

FOREWORD

With a sigh of relief and a fervent supplication, we finally trundle our little brain-child off the presses out into the hands of its readers. At last we may remove our several proboscises from the grindstone and our scapulas from the wheel and present a "perfect" yearbook. We fully appreciate that no one's accomplishments are omitted, no one's feelings will be hurt, and no one's expectations will be confounded. We know that nothing but praise can possibly mark the "Portal '43"!—However that may be, we at least have done our best.

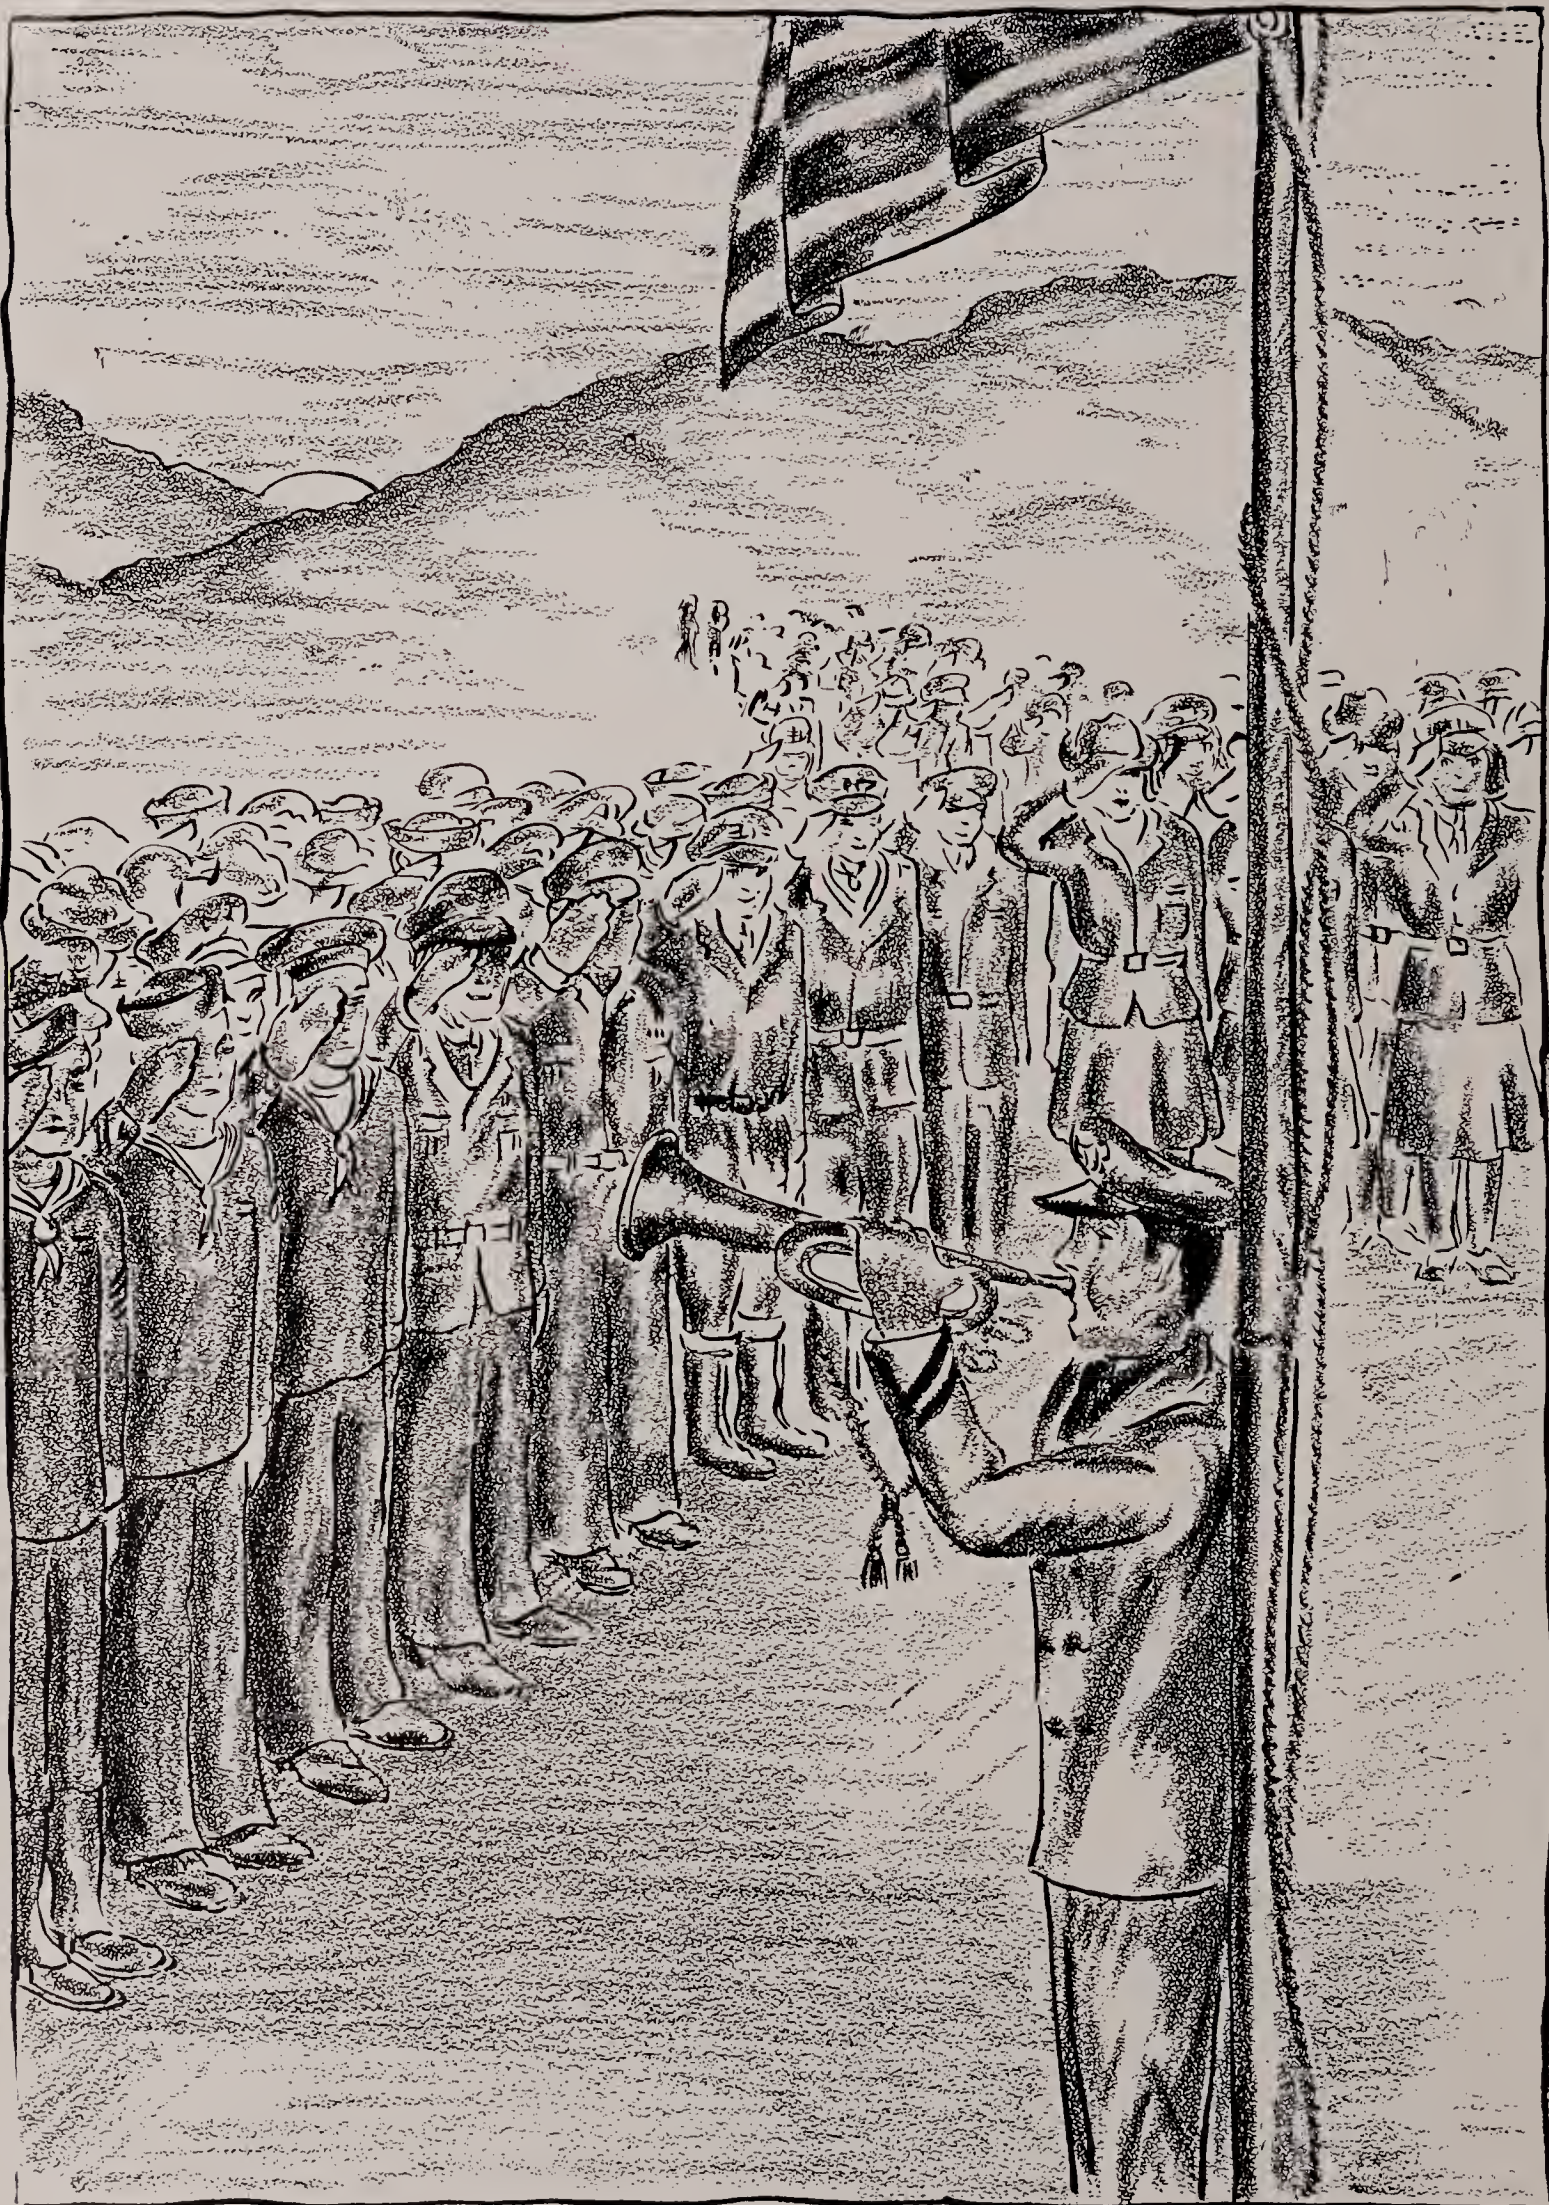

We have attempted to capture those memories which we will cherish most and to chronicle that way of life of ours for which we are fighting and for which men the world over are dying.

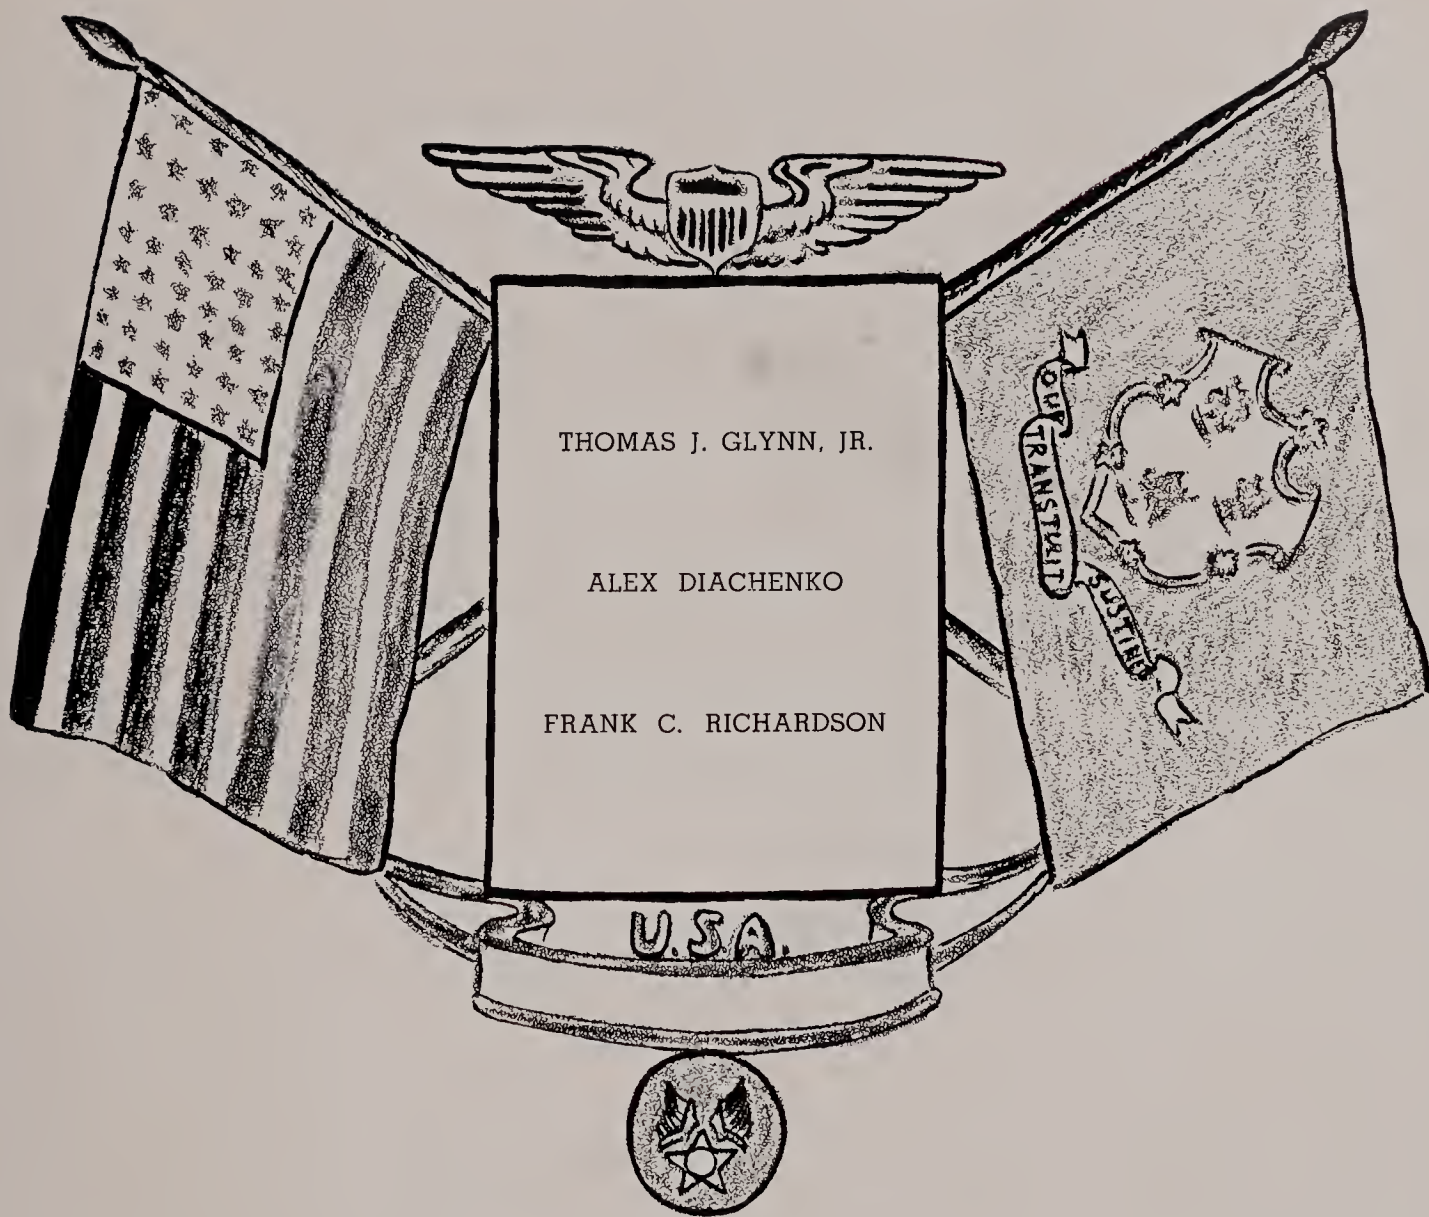

Now, blissful in our new-found freedom from write-ups, features, and deadlines, we retire once more into the quiet solitude of our respective padded cells.

—A.P.W.—

Good candidates for the Signal Corps

DEDICATION

As our country passes through this, her darkest hour, Weaver students and teachers alike have gone forth to succor her, and before 1943 waxes older, many more will also depart from the portals of Weaver to join the various services. This war may be long and its price dear—we realize all too well that many who have answered the call to arms may be sacrificed upon the bloody altar of Mars before this war is won. Already three Weaver graduates have paid for the coming peace with their lives. They were typical of all the men and boys who have given up the happy, well-ordered life which should rightly be theirs, to enter the armed forces.

Therefore, in tribute, we, the class of 1943, do dedicate this class book to Thomas J. Glynn Jr., Alex Diachenko, and Frank C. Richardson, as representatives of all those who, unselfishly and unstintingly, are sacrificing everything to serve their Country and their God.

MR. FRANK H. BURKE

Our Principal

I do not believe that any student can call to mind the assembly hall without picturing Mr. Burke on the stage speaking with his unhurried, forceful, accurate wording and his commanding "basso profundo". Or can anyone forget his grinning and chuckling good-naturedly upon the completion of his "Modern Design" cheer, or blushing embarrassedly at certain remarks concerning a "curly-haired, red-headed" young man?

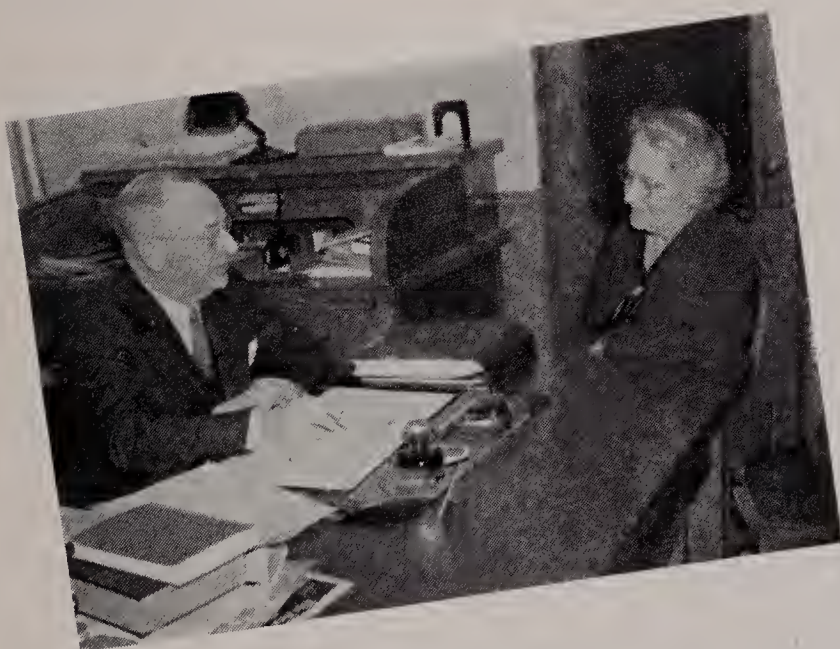

Nor is it possible to recall the front lobby without seeing the long queue of nervous students, each possessing a call slip scrawled with a queer Greek character, collecting before "The Desk"? However, regardless of whether it be a cipher or a commendation slip, no student need expect anything but genuine, sympathetic interest and temperate justice from his principal.

Long after we have left Weaver, we shall all continue to remember Mr. Frank H. Burke as the able, respected, human "almus pater" of us all, his students.

MISS FAITH TALCOTT
Our Vice-Principal

Our soft-spoken, considerate vice-principal who serves as the mediator between the old-fashioned girl and the modern Weaverite . . . the personification of dignity and stateliness . . . her office one of the few rooms in Weaver with a real need for dimout shades (she stayed late!) . . . "Faith Talcott" should rightfully be the first name in the Weaver service book!

The "Bosses" confer!

WEAVER HIGH SCHOOL

Weaver High School presents a striking picture from the southeast side. As one walks along Greenfield Street toward Ridgefield Street, he is inspired by the elevated position of the building. The expansive front lawns, the perfect symmetry of the architecture, and the trim, green shrubs bordering the walks add greatly to the splendor of the building. The open, clean atmosphere surrounding Weaver's ten-acre site and the proximity of picturesque Keney Park provide our educational institution with a truly inspirational setting. May this snapshot of the gymnasium always remind us of our "happy days" within the portals of Weaver!

THE FACULTY

The all-too-familiar strains of "Your homework is not in", and "Take two demerits" have long since been drowned out by the battle cries of "Put out that light—this is a blackout!" and "Rationing lines form on the left." Yes, the faculty have come mightily to the aid of our total war effort by carrying more than their share of Civilian Defense activities. They offer us knowledge by day; they mete out our gasoline, fuel oil, shoes, clothes, sugar, and processed foods by night. Cheerfully and conscientiously they have fallen in step with the war workers and fighting men of this great nation.

Thus we are proud to present Hartford's air-raid wardens, Hartford's First Aiders, Hartford's airplane spotters, Hartford's rationers—our teachers.

THE CLASS

Here we have assembled the Hall of Fame of the future—all the famous men of years to come are gathered upon these pages. Potential Pasteurs, Douglas MacArthurs, Colin Kellys, and Isaac Newtons lie bound within these leaves. Cherish this album carefully so that you may prove "I knew him when"

Thus we happily present the greatest gift yet received by this poor world, the Class of '43!

Seniors at Work—Room 227

The following boys from the Senior Class of 1943 left school early to join various Armed Services:

Fred Bloom	Robert Hall
Victor Brynga	John Holt
Morris Budkofsky	Gerald Kimenker
Charles Chystal	George McAlees
Andrew DiBella	Frank McSweegan
Milton Factor	Sidney Miller
Herbert Gitlen	David Montstream
Robert Gregory	George Peroni
Fred Gondek	Peter Quinn

Bernard Wise

These boys who had expected to graduate with our class joined the colors instead of finishing the year:

Jack Bedford	Richard Ficks	James Moriarty
Clifford Dauer	William Lawler	Gilbert Wise
	David Lebowitz

Several more boys left school after this material went to the printer.

ACTIVITIES

The world was already at war when our class started its high school career. Gradually even before Pearl Harbor, our school life was reflecting the spirit of the times, and slight changes were making their way into the school program. With December 7, 1941 came more rapid changes.

The spirit of total war penetrated both the classrooms and the extra-curricular activities of Weaver. With so many students employed part-time and others engaged in numerous community enterprises, our whole club program underwent a drastic revision. Some clubs ceased their work for the duration while others adjusted their efforts to the needs of the time. Gymnastics and sports gained new emphasis; The Victory Corps, the W A R S, and other service groups developed rapidly to fill the community's calls for service. Social life came to a halt for a while with the blackout and dimout regulations.

As we sacrificed many of the traditional school activities, in their stead we substituted an ever increasing devotion to wartime enterprises. With this community and national effort has come a sense of pride that we of the Class of '43, in some small way, have been helping to win the war and the peace to come.

Sports at Weaver — 1942-'43

Sports at Weaver during the recent season enjoyed the same hearty and enthusiastic response, from participants and spectators alike, that they have consistently enjoyed in the past and which has become so typical of Weaver. Despite inevitable distractions occasioned by the war, the sporting blood at Weaver was still able to tingle at the sight of a ball swishing neatly through a hoop, or a fleet-footed halfback outdistancing his opponents in a last-minute goalward sprint. Weaver's superb "eleven" and its less spectacular "five" were cheered with equal fervor. The unrelenting, hard and clean play of Weaver's athletes merited the highest praise in victory or defeat.

Beneath all the shouting, cheering, and band playing however, a grimmer note was sounded this season: a note that was to swell into the stirring and irresistible "call to the colors." Many of the same boys who so valiantly defended Weaver's goal line last season will be defending a far greater goal next year; they will be defending Democracy and all that it stands for. When we think of the wonderful physical and mental qualities of coordination, fighting spirit, and perseverance that our athletes exhibited here at Weaver, we cannot help feeling assured that these same boys will, in like manner, help to smash the Axis lines, and plant the "ball of victory" behind them.

WEAVER 6—WEST HAVEN 0

Good start . . . practically new team . . . usual strong West Haven outfit . . . single tally provides winning margin . . . Dobrowolsky to Ferrigno pass . . . breaks series of ties . . . prospects of good season.

WEAVER 12—EAST HARTFORD 0

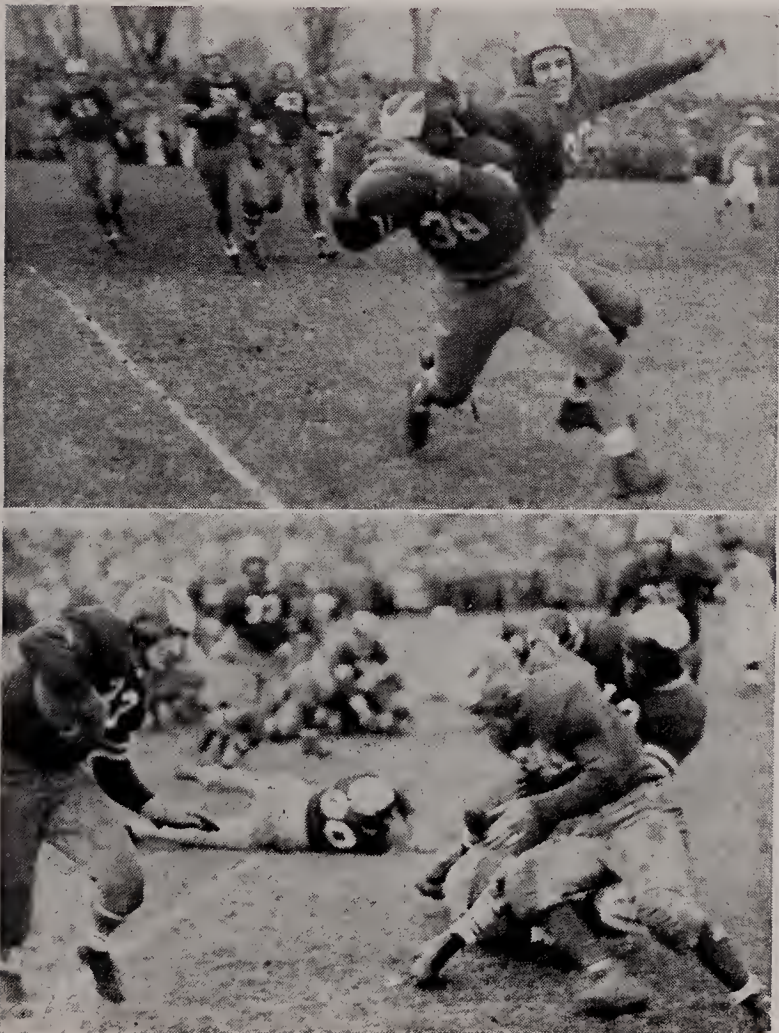

Brilliant pass receiving and intercepting of Bill Byrne provides winning spark . . . Green and White rolls up second victory . . . East Hartford better than usual, but not good enough . . . fleet-footed Connie Nappier's long end runs highlights of first quarter . . . E. H. threatens in second quarter, but fails to push over for a score . . . Byrne snares beautiful pass from Ferrigno and slips through E. H. secondary for initial score . . . Douglas and Perkins contribute fine defensive work . . . Dobrowolsky's long punts keep Weaver out of danger in second half . . . in final minutes Byrne intercepts desperate E. H. pass and races thirty yards for second touchdown . . . Weaver's goal line remains uncrossed.

WEAVER 47—WEST HARTFORD 0

Slaughter . . . Green wave swamps opponents from out West . . . strong forward wall, backed by fast and powerful secondary, proves more than too much for inferior Hall team . . . superb ball carrying by Nappier, Dobrowolsky, and Ferrigno gives Weaver twenty point lead at end of third period . . . Gipson puts in third string for last quarter . . . scores almost at will . . . Williams runs circles around battered Hall team to tally twice . . . Dobrowolsky comes back in to score again . . . Ed Smith races blocked pass across enemy goal for final tally . . . Weaver still unscored upon and ranks No. 1 in the state.

WEAVER 13—LEAVENWORTH 0

Green and White not up to par . . . unexciting contest except for pair of scoring thrusts . . . Weaver confined to own territory in first half by scrappy Leavenworth eleven . . . Dobrowolsky intercepts Levy pass and dashes fifty yards to score early in third quarter . . . inspires lagging Weaver team . . . Poppalardo takes twenty-five yard pass from Ferrigno and races forty yards to Levy twenty, but fumbles . . . DeLucco outstanding in smashing Levy plays . . . Green wave marches eighty yards in last period and scores on Nappier's fifteen yard sprint . . . fourth win of season for Weaver.

WEAVER 32—BULKELEY 0

Another field day for the Green and White . . . Dobrowolsky contributes three touchdowns in smashing Maroon eleven . . . brilliant passing by Ferrigno and capable receiving by Brink and Herbert sets up first touchdown and gives Weaver quick second . . . Kaufman's recovery of Bulkeley fumble and Ferrigno to Dobrowolsky pass renders final touchdown in first half . . . Dobrowolsky scores early in third period . . . Bulkeley threatens twice, but to no avail . . . Little Tony Calabro holds his own against rangy Maroon pass receivers . . . Jack Arnone plays usual outstanding game and intercepts pass to set up final Weaver score . . . Dobrowolsky hits center and goes through for seventy yards to score . . . Weaver brings season scoring total to 110 points in five games.

WEAVER 0—H. B. H. S. 7

Sorrowful climax of one of Weaver's greatest elevens . . . crippled by loss of triple threat ace Dobrowolsky (confined to bench with head cold) co-captain Arnone and rest of Green and White squad fight valiantly to hold surging Hartford team but are overcome in final minutes of game . . . Weaver flashes usual lightning offensive early in first period, but on defensive rest of game . . . backed up to their own goal line Weaver shows true colors by heroic defensive work . . . fumble by Weaver and long end runs sets stage for Hartford score from two yard stripe . . . beaten but still "tops" in estimation of student body.

Congratulations to a fighting team and their popular coach, Charles Gipson! Keep up the good work.

Co-Captains—Dobrowolsky and Arnone

Cross-Country

Another rather poor season . . . team hampered by shortage of men and by numerous injuries . . . failed to establish themselves as serious threat in scholastic competition . . . Mike Morris and Andy DiBella co-captains . . . DiBella first student coach . . . triumph over Middletown only shining star in schedule . . . Morris, outstanding performer for Green and White, placed first in Bristol meet . . . only first taken by a Weaver man during season . . . fine spirit and superb stamina displayed throughout, despite consistent setbacks and handicaps.

Spring Sports

BASEBALL

Varsity baseball was eliminated from Weaver's spring sports program since additional wartime duties placed on the faculty made it impossible for any member to assume the coaching responsibilities. Also outside activities and part-time work limited the number of candidates.

SOFTBALL

Intramural softball league organized . . . eight teams entered . . . captains to arrange schedule and act as governing body . . . keen competition expected.

TRACK

The usual strong sport with Mr. Gipson coaching . . . addition of former baseball men may prove valuable asset . . . Morris and Herbert expected to render good performances in mile and weights respectively . . . possible loss of two stars, Nappier and Perrone, will mean some handicaps . . . team still apparently strong . . . spirit high for a good season!

Girls' Sports

GIRLS' LEADERS' CORPS

As a scholastically-minded individual aspires for membership in the "Honor Society," the girls' sport enthusiast craves election to the "Girls' Leaders' Corps." To obtain this privilege one must be active and proficient in all sports, must possess a congenial personality, and must be willing to sacrifice her time to extend her knowledge and interest. In addition she must be elected unanimously by the standing members of the corps. Through the efforts of this organization girls of the school are given the opportunity for extra curricular sport activities.

The corps divides itself into committees with each smaller group taking charge of one after-school sport. They hold practice sessions to teach the history, rules, and technique. Eventually during each season a schedule is arranged for competition to enable girls to earn athletic points toward their numerals and sweaters. In addition corps members cheerfully give their study periods to instruct in gym classes. Although few in number, the leaders are definitely indispensable to the Weaver girls' physical education department.

ATHLETIC POINTS

Toward the termination of each school year an athletic assembly is called for girls. At this time letters, numerals, medals, and sweaters are awarded to those obtaining the required number of points earned through participation in extra-curricular sports. Two hundred points are needed for class numerals, three hundred for a school letter, and the ten girls accumulating the highest number of points receive sweaters. Medals are awarded for outstanding achievement in a single sport such as tennis or ping pong. The girls are as justly proud of their citations as any football hero. The awards also serve as an inspiration to undergraduate students to take part in after-school sports.

Fall Sports

PHYSICAL FITNESS

As the country was called to arms and men trained to fight, emphasis was placed on physical fitness. As we became spontaneously unified in military spirit, the girls' gym classes became organized as precise military units. Squads and platoons were formed into a company. Each class member was a private; the squad monitors were corporals; the Girls' Leaders' Corps, lieutenants; and Miss Stephan became the captain. The first meeting of the class each week was devoted to strenuous calisthenics for developing the muscles of the body. Marching in accepted military fashion was also taught. On the second class day every piece of apparatus was used as the girls hung from the stall bars, jumped the horses, swung and climbed the ropes in true commando exercises.

Modern Dance Class

SOCCKER SPEEDBALL COMES TO WEAVER

In the past years soccer has always been included in the usual curriculum of girls' sports, yet even when the game was energetically played, only a few girls participated at one time. However soccer speedball allows the ball to be passed in the air once it has been lifted from the ground. Touchdowns may be made by passing the ball over the goal post to another member of the team, field goals may be kicked, and points scored if the ball is kicked over the goal posts, not necessarily between the posts. These amendments involve more girls and more action plus creating more interest and momentum in the game. Under the direction of Muriel Lowe and Betty Askinas of the Leaders' Corps a successful extra curricular schedule was maintained with girls from every class reporting Tuesdays and Thursdays throughout the soccer season.

Winter Sports

BASKETBALL

Edythe Seltzer, Corps member, under the direction of Miss Stephan, organized basketball enthusiasts into a schedule for extra curricular activity. The program was arranged, so that girls might play Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Girls' rules were used allowing three forwards, three guards, one dribble, and the capture of the ball as soon as it left the shooter's hands on a free shot. As the season advanced teams were selected to play each other. A varsity was chosen, and the championship game held. This gave winners the satisfaction of being "Tops," plus gaining extra athletic points.

ICE SKATING

Under the guidance of Miss Stephan, ice skating and figure skating classes were conducted at Keney Park when the weather permitted. These girls mastered the difficult figure eight and learned the fundamentals of dancing on skates. They occasionally adjourned to roller skating when conditions made it impossible to ice skate.

SWIMMING

Swimming has often been designated as the most perfect exercise. Through the co-operation of the Y. W. C. A. facilities for this sport were extended to the aqua admirers of our fairer sex. These girls were taught the rudiments of swimming and diving, then gradually advanced to do strokes to music and more complicated dives such as the swan, jack knife, and back flip. These were all worked out in rhythmic patterns and figures as performed in professional aquacades. The group was organized by Dorothy Hayes of the Leaders' Corps, who assisted throughout the schedule with attendance notices and arranged competition for athletic points.

MODERN DANCE

In an effort to improve the general posture, grace, and health of our girls, modern dance was inaugurated at Weaver High School by Miss Stephan, physical education instructor. This art form expresses concepts of today by using the human body as the medium. Wiseman and Graham techniques were used as a foundation. This knowledge was further developed and employed by expressing the moods of various songs. It proved to be one of the most popular and beneficial activities of the girls' education department.

TABLE TENNIS

The rules and techniques of table tennis were taught and practiced during gym classes. Those most interested signed up for the tournament. The semi-finalists were Gloria Basch, Joyce Cieri, Selma DuBrow, and Eleanor Kaufman. From these contestants Selma DuBrow and Gloria Basch emerged victorious.

BADMINTON

During the spring badminton was played in the gymnasium during classes while archery, soft ball, and jumping went on outdoors. A pupil could select the sport she wished to follow. Badminton was quite popular in every class. A big tournament including all classes is planned for the spring. Finalists and participants will receive athletic points graded to their status when eliminated as is done in other tournaments.

Spring Sports

Girls' Gym Class

TENNIS

Any girl, beginner or advanced, interested in tennis was included in the ladder Tournament. The name of each contestant was placed on a removable rung of a cardboard ladder. She challenged any girl not more than two places ahead of her and the match was played. According to the outcome the ladder was reorganized. Every challenge had to be answered. The highest eight compete annually for the finals. A course of tennis is also offered as an accepted gym activity.

GOLF

Some girls through their own initiative and desire studied golf. Putting was practiced Mondays and Fridays on the school lawn. Every other week they played at the Keney Golf Course. Helene Moss gave valuable assistance in developing golf at Weaver.

BASEBALL

Baseball is the All-American game. Its everlasting attraction is traditional with Weaver girls. Softball is taught and played during all spring gym periods, and a large representation from all classes respond for after-school games. Classes are mixed to incite more spirit, teams are chosen, and during the entire spring the Girls' Leaders' Corps maintains a successful schedule.

ARCHERY

Though archery was introduced comparatively recently at Weaver, the accepted twenty-five pound bow that our girls use requires untold energy and the complete coordination of the muscles to manipulate. Weaver's best archers were Geraldine Kenny, Josephine DeMeo, Dorothy Ragazzi, Muriel Lowe, and Beatrice Echenique. The group met every Monday in the spring, but the sport was also taught in the classes. It proved a most beneficial sport for exercise.

VOLLEY BALL

Volleyball is one game that will always be popular. It is active enough to hold the interest of every girl throughout every game. Keen competition always arises between the senior and sophomore teams. Practice sessions are held; then teams are formed to play against each other. Volleyball is played on Tuesdays and Thursdays during March and April, and always receives enthusiastic support.

Broad jumping and running jumping are performed during some gym classes. Three feet seven inches was the record reached by Ruth Mason, Constance Malley, and Dorothy Doyle.

The Lookout

As each two weeks go by, Weaverites eagerly turn the pages of the illustrious Lookout to find out what's what and who's who. The adage, "The pen is mightier than the sword", certainly applies to that column of columns, The Scoop, written by the roving reporter of gab and gossip. On the serious side, The Lookout does a fine job of telling us what is happening at Weaver and what opportunities are being offered us outside of Weaver. Sports, fashions, and editorials provide food for every reading taste. School spirit, at its highest, and pride in our Alma Mater are clearly reflected in the pages of "The Lookout."

History

SOPHOMORE YEAR

SEPTEMBER, 1940

Today was Sam Sophomore's first day at Weaver. Will he ever forget it? He was so confused and those seniors were certainly no help! How was he supposed to know that room 169 wasn't in the girls' gym?

Love in bloom! Mr. Baker and Miss Gilman announce their engagement.

OCTOBER

Suzy Sophomore goes to the Senior-Sophomore party, and per usual the Seniors managed to make fools out of themselves.

Cy Smith interviews Wendell Willkie when he is in town. Gee, some kids get all the luck!

Football season is beginning, and Sam hopes we have a good season.

John Fried breaks into "The Lookout" telling about his experiences in Austria.

Girls' League gives a Hallowee'n party and Suzy, brave girl, trips the spooky ghost walk.

Miss Hartin is injured in an accident, so Miss Merlet takes her place. Remember her boys? Sam does. Um-yum.

NOVEMBER

The first Honor Roll is announced. Mother's mad at Sam. He wonders why.

Weaver's impressive winning streak is snapped by Bulkeley on Armistice Day, 22-13, but the Green and White comes back on Turkey Day and swamps the old enemy H.P.H.S. —12-6.

DECEMBER

Sam Sophomore goes to the first Goodwill Formal, resplendent in his tux, with his new girl, Suzy. They have a wonderful time, and Sam is floating on air.

Too bad it isn't a white Christmas, but Sam has a good time over the holidays anyway.

JANUARY, 1941

Back to the old grind again! Sam is wondering which raving beauty will be elected Festival Queen.

Girls' League chases "Robin Hood" to the auditorium in the form of a movie. (Suzy likes Errol Flynn. Sam-Olivia De Haviland.)

Basketball team starts the season with a victory.

FEBRUARY

Sam Sophomore and Co. enjoy Dramatic Club's performance of "Imaginary Invalid."

The Service Week is carried out with great success and fine cooperation of all students.

The semester Honor Roll is announced, and Suzy finally gets her name in print. Poor Sam, his mother is still mad!

Sam and his gang yell so hard that Weaver goes to State tournaments.

MARCH

Bangs are in style, so Suzy sports her fringe. Sam doesn't like it but that doesn't bother Suzy.

Suzy's English teacher, Mr. Katz, receives an invitation from Uncle Sam to join his army! Suzy gets a new English teacher.

APRIL

Weaver's famed Projection Squad reaches the hundredth mark in program presentation.

Sam and Suzy turn up at the Spring Festival and watch Shirley Bartlett crowned Queen. Sam expresses verbal disappointment because Betty Joseph is only runner-up; Suzy looks a little jealous!

Second spring vacation comes, so all good pupils throw their books under the bed for a week!

MAY

Congratulations! Mr. Gipson passes out cigars—a boy!

Suzy is glad to hear that Miss Wakefield finally "gets" her man. Miss Ingle is successful in matrimonial sea!

The student body is saddened by the untimely death of Mr. Jack Cohen, "a true musician and a true friend."

JUNE

Coach Fred Stone's tragic death shocks the Honor Society assembly. The pupils observe an impressive one-minute silent tribute to his memory.

SEPTEMBER, 1941

Another school year begins for Sam Junior and Suzy. Sam has a good time trying to "help" the poor little Sophomores. He can't believe that he ever looked as young and as lost as those poor kids!

Mr. Holden, Weaver's first principal, dies.

Weaver's new machine shop is completed and a great credit to the school.

Miss Craig returns after a long illness and takes over the Junior Study Hall for the first period. Suzy had the fright of her life when she thought Miss Craig told her to take three demerits. It turned out to be the girl in back of her.

The new girls' gym teacher, Miss Stephan, institutes new physical fitness program

OCTOBER

Arline Muschel wins the bookkeeping prize and Muriel Glazer takes second place.

Suzy tries out for cheerleaders but doesn't make it. Suzy says that it won't stop her from yelling at all the games—even if she did go limping around the school for a week after the tryouts.

Weaver's football team gets under way and polishes off Hall and West Haven.

Suzy and Sam go to the Art-Crafts Dance and have a swell time doing the Conga and Rhumba.

Dramatic Club tryouts are held and eight Junior members are admitted. The French Club holds its initiation ceremonies, and the Junior members are put through the ropes.

Mr. Green becomes a member of the Weaver Faculty.

NOVEMBER

Suzy belongs to one of the 100% Girls' League Rooms and is allowed to see the teachers "act natural" as they present some hilarious skits and convulse their audience.

Chem Club sponsors liquid air demonstration which fascinates Sam and his Junior pals.

Sam's Maw and Paw meet Suzy's Mater and Pater at Weaver's Open House. All the parents like Mr. Burke.

Sam joins the band, and he swears that it was because he blew his trumpet extra hard that Weaver beat Bulkeley 7-0.

Suzy climbs over into the band section and ripped up Sam's music when Bull Yellin kicked the field goal that beat H.P.H.S. 10-7.

Weaver wins the city football championship!

DECEMBER

Sam and Suzy—the proverbial couple—attend the Goodwill Formal and dance to Gibson's smooth music. Boy—it sure looks like love.

"Vocabulary Abe" Goldfarb makes debut in English class, spouting those now familiar long words.

The Japs bomb Pearl Harbor, and America enters the war on the side of the Allies. The school at an assembly hears the historic session of Congress declaring war on Japan.

Suzy gave Sam another necktie for Christmas; in return Sam gave Suzy another compact, but they did have a good time on New Year's Eve.

JANUARY, 1942

"The Lookout" sponsors the Senior Farewell Dance. Suzy deserts Sam and goes with a Senior! Sam is rather unhappy about it but takes consolation from the fact that Suzy doesn't look too happy.

The new air raid warning signals are announced, and Sam and Suzy hope that it comes during their English period.

FEBRUARY

The Weaver Oratorical Contest is held, and Suzy is very proud of Deena Farber because she comes in second. Sam and Suzy have a swell time at the Girls' League Musical Review. Frankie Carabillo's hula dance and Lester Lappen's and Harvie Kaufman's skit convulsed them.

The Sportsman's Show presents a brief assembly program and impresses the assembly with their unusual and interesting performances!

MARCH

Suzy is chosen to be on the Junior Faculty Tea Committee and she has her eye on the teacher she wants to ask. Sam is chosen to be on the Junior Prom Committee of which "Chuck" Lombardo is elected chairman. Grand preparations are under way, and both affairs promise to be great successes. The watchword with Suzy and her pals is "How many flowers did you make?"

Sam takes Suzy to the Dramatic Club's four one-act plays. Sam and Suzy liked "The Weathervane Elopes" and "The Romance of the Willow Pattern" the best. Suzy said she liked "Father" John McNulty.

Sam thinks that Mr. Green is doing a good job of enlarging and revitalizing the band.

APRIL

Andre Schenker, noted new analyst, gives his view of the news on April Fool's Day.

Sam appreciates Miss Stephan's pinch-hitting in the Girls' League Pan American Assembly. Suzy says she enjoyed the singing and Billy Duncan immensely.

The Faculty Tea is carried out with great success and Suzy enjoyed herself even if she didn't know how to serve her teacher properly.

Suzy and Sam trot out in their best evening attire for the gala Junior Prom. Every one says that there was never a more beautiful Prom. Suzy was proud to see the flowers she made as a part of the beautiful American Flag.

MAY

The Honor Society opens its doors to 24 select Juniors. Alas—poor Suzy and Sam—!

The Choir and Orchestra give their annual concert. Suzy and Sam attend it, and everything goes smoothly until afterwards when they quarrel violently over which was the prettiest piece.

Junior Ushers are announced, and although Sam is one of the boys picked that doesn't cut any ice with Suzy. She's still mad!

JUNE

Cy Smith is elected to the Editor-in-Chief position on "The Lookout." Sam spends all day looking for Cy to congratulate him, and then finds out that he took the day off to go hunting! Sam gets summer fever and inveigles a Reception ticket from a Senior. Suzy is persuaded to go with him and protests that she was never mad at him anyway! The real story is that she was too thrilled to say, "No".

SEPTEMBER, 1942

SENIOR YEAR

School again, but now it is Sam Senior and his girl Suzy. Sam, in Senior fashion, informs a believing Sophomore that Mr. Fox is the sweetest (soft-spoken) person in Weaver. Silly boy!

Jeanette Brody, Max Galinsky, and Estelle Meister are chosen as Cy's side-kicks for "The Lookout".

The school is saddened by the deaths during the summer of Arthur Clark and Tina Christino.

The school is pleased to hear that Miss Fraser and Miss Goodwin have become WAAC officers during the summer.

The Senior girls, including Suzy, play hostess at the "get-acquainted" Senior-Sophomore parties.

OCTOBER

Sam is still wondering what happened to the promised loud speaker system at home football games!

The system of Lunchroom monitors is inaugurated and Suzy and Sam have the job of picking up the empty milk bottles from their tables.

Allan Walch is elected to head the Editorial Board of The Portal and Eugene Elliott selected to head the Business Board. Suzy and Sam spend two weeks being nice to the fellows, and Allan finally rewards them by choosing them to be on his board.

Sam signs up for soccer in a rash moment and spends every morning bruised and battered. He swears that he is never offside, and yet Mr. Parks constantly blows his whistle and hollers, "You're offside".

Weaver starts football season with a bang beating East Hartford.

Sam sprains three fingers convincing a Hall roter that Weaver really won the game, 47-0. The team really looks snappy, and Sam has high hope for a perfect season.

Thirty-five Seniors are admitted to the Honor Society, and Gerard Siek is elected president and Betty Summers secretary. Betty casts the one unanimous vote electing Mr. Stanley, treasurer!

Suzy has an honor table in the lunchroom and lords it over Sam whose table isn't honorable.

Cheerleaders are chosen with Betty Rockwell as head Cheerleader. Suzy finally makes the cheerleaders' squad and proudly declares that all her sore muscles are worth getting on.

Suzy's cheering and Sam's trumpet tooting, plus the help of the team, beat Bulkeley 32-0. The cheerleaders and the band make the most of the occasion by yelling the good news down Main Street. Oh bad news! The combination of Suzy, Sam and the football team did not prove too good because the Green and White lost to HPHS on Thanksgiving Day 7-0.

DECEMBER

Suzy asks Sam to the Goodwill Formal only to have it postponed until January.

Mr. Burke announces in Assembly that Thomas J. Glynn Jr. is the first Weaver alumnus to die in this war, and the assembly observes a one-minute silence in his memory.

Jeanette Brody is elected DAR representative by the vote of students and faculty.

Christmas vacation, and Suzy spends her holiday working in Fox's while Sam checks up on Suzy's mail in the Post Office!

Mr. Carrier and pals spend their time rationing fuel oils.

JANUARY, 1943

Sam and Suzy return to start the last lap of their senior year, and find that the Armed Forces will soon be claiming Weaver students.

Suzy becomes perturbed over the fact that a minor explosion happened in her Chem. Lab. when Mr. Parks and some sparks get mixed up. It seems that the very particular Mr. Parks slipped up and unintentionally let a spark fall into a beaker of lead and sulfur. A sudden chemical reaction took place and the mixture obligingly went up in flames and enveloped the whole third floor in a dense choking smoke screen.

The WARS appear at Weaver, and the members cover themselves with glory at rationing headquarters.

The Projection Squad of Mr. Parks receives national recognition in the "Educational Screen."

FEBRUARY

Suzy is very disappointed because Governor Baldwin requests that the Goodwill Formal be cancelled because of the fuel shortage, and after she had bought a new evening dress!

The Mile-Of-Dimes is lengthened by generous contributions from Weaver's students and faculty.

Suzy and her girl-friends have been doing some voluntary work in Hartford Hospital, and they learn that they are now considered members of the "Bluebirds." Suzy is proud of her blue uniform and loves the work there.

The Victory Corps objectives are explained, and the drive for school membership starts.

The Senior class elections are held with George Wald elected President, Betty Rockwell, Treasurer; and Bob Brainard, Reception Chairman.

Sam froze his ears coming to school in the twenty-below temperature. However it was worth it because he heard Rubinoff and his violin at assembly. Mr. Burke make an eloquent appeal for Victory Corps membership, and Sam and Suzy are among the first to join.

Former teacher, Mr. Woodbury, wins national recognition for his winning poem "Valley Forge."

Suzy and Sam are elated because they are on the new formed Matinee Dance Committee with Connie Nappier as Chairman.

The Victory Corps gets under way with the formation of the Victory Corps council. Edward Gipstein and Connie Malley represent the Seniors.

The school social season opens with the Girls' League and Victory Corps sponsored dance. Suzy and Sam naturally attend the dance and thoroughly enjoy themselves. Many more good dances have been promised.

The school is shocked by the sudden death of Edwin Wolf, a sophomore, and also of the loss of an alumnus, Alex Diachenko, former Honor student and football captain, on a destroyer engaged in Atlantic convoy duty.

Loquacious Abe Goldbarb passes successfully through the school, city, and county oratorical contests and wins second place in the state contest.

Gerard Sick is named Valedictorian of the Senior Class and Jeanette Brody, Salutatorian. Orchids and applause to both!

Weaver hits the 90% participation mark in sale of War bonds and stamps with Room 227 getting 100% participation.

APRIL

Navy V-12 and Army A-12 tests are given at Weaver, and since Sam tries out, Suzy goes around all morning with her fingers crossed hoping that he will get a good mark.

Lookout Dance is held, and Sam and Suzy go. They like the decorations and enthusiastically admit they have a swell time.

An assembly is given to urge a greater total of War Bonds and Stamps purchase. John McNulty is master of ceremonies with Betty Summers and Abe Goldfarb giving pep talks and Betty Rockwell reciting "High Flight".

The Minute Man Flag arrives and Mr. Waring is proud as punch. Very appropriate exercises are held and everyone resolves to keep the flag up there.

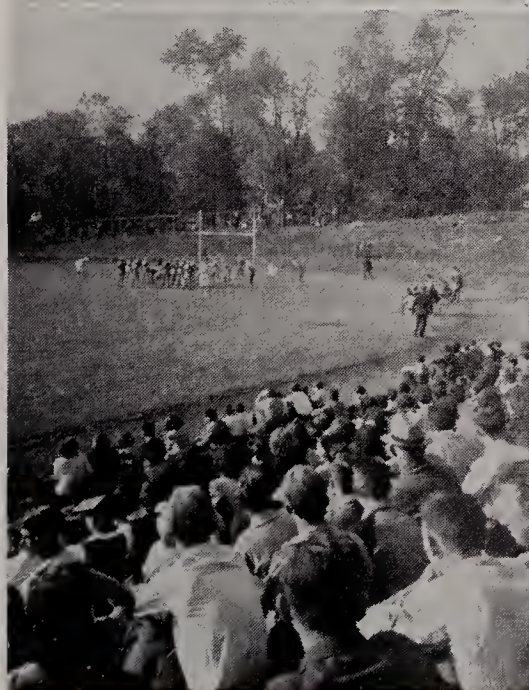

MAY

Sam and Suzy, ambitious and patriotic, start planting Victory Gardens. Sam got the knees of his pants all dirty and Suzy, poor girl, breaks her favorite long fingernail, but they figure that the end will justify the means!

Everybody agog! Graduation and Reception two weeks early. Suzy and her gang go scouting for new dresses. Sam will wear the same old stiff front!

JUNE

Graduation! Sam and Suzy now are Alumni of WHS. They enjoy all the class activities and think the Senior Reception is the best dance they ever went to. The three years at Weaver have been fun, and they hope that the future will hold as much enjoyment—with the war coming to a speedy end and an era of lasting peace arriving at last!

Weaver Gremlins at Work!

Weaver Gremlins

One of the products of this war is the Gremlin. But in reality he is nothing new. Weaver has always had its Gremlins as many of us can tell.

There is the Koob-hsup, the little fellow who never fails to push our books onto the floor just as the teacher has finished lecturing about unnecessary disturbances. The only difficulty is that the Koob-hsup can be seen only by students. This leads to a great deal of trouble and explanation.

The Elkcit, on the other hand, has a peculiar trait of tickling one. Why else should it happen that when we are paying close attention to everything that is being said in class, we should giggle or laugh just as the teacher turns to look at us? No one ever makes cracks to make us laugh! It is the Elkcit every time.

Who is the lucky person who never came across an Ibila? We do our homework, writing everything there is to be written, learning everything there is to be learned. Then the little devil flies away with our paper, and places our card so we will be called on for the one question we do not know. It is, without doubt, the Ibila who is the cause of every zero. His cousin, Topsdnib, is the one who holds his scraggly invisible hand over part of the assignment. That is usually why we often don't get to do all the lesson.

As for Klat; all we can say is, "" Many is the time, in study hall, Klat comes over and begins to push our lips up and down. To be sure, his vile little purpose is to make the teacher think we are talking. But we are not. Klat has been responsible for more than one demerit or cipher.

Well known to Miss Fleming and the Friday Club is the Lli. We get up on a fine Friday morning and suddenly, o-o-o-w! what a stomach ache! Of course we stay home in bed. Then, just as it is too late to go to school, the pain is gone. Then what is there to do but go to a movie? The original trouble was caused by Lli. He gets his daily exercise by going around and jumping up and down on students' mid-sections from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. Praise be to Lli and long weekends!

Last, but not least, is the Krej, the one who gave us all the inside dope on his fellow Gremlins.

CLUBS . . .

LATIN CLUB

In keeping with the times, the Concilium Romanum has become a service club. As a part of their duty in the war, the members have sent handkerchiefs and books to former Latin Club members who are now in the armed services and have done volunteer work in the community when called upon. The officers this year were:

Consules . . Ruth Tuck, Shirley Ginsberg
Quaestores . Gerard Siek, Lillian Kamins
Censor Muriel Calloway
Faculty Adviser Miss Conklin

C.H.L.S.

The Caroline Hewins Literary Society has become a library service group for the duration. The members have become library assistants and have given up a period or more a week for this volunteer work. Their weekly meetings are spent no longer in discussing books, but in rolling surgical bandages.

President Ruth Tuck
V.-President and Treasurer . Thelma Bloom
Secretary Betty Joseph
Faculty Adviser . Miss Elizabeth Haselton

SENIORS IN THIS CLUB INCLUDE

Shirley Ginsberg, Sylvia Hurwitz, Bernice Brightman, Betty Joseph, Muriel Glasser, Sylvia Nassau, Selma DuBrow, Ruth Tuck, Serena Steinberg, Thelma Bloom, Phyllis Mottram, Ada Maislen, Selma Moses, Selma Sondik, Deena Farber.

Art-Crafts Club in the War-Effort

Interest and ability in every line of art is being developed by the faculty and members of the Art-Crafts Club to support Weaver's united war efforts. The annual sale of articles designed and created by students provided the club treasury with funds with which a War Bond was purchased. As an inspirational reminder to fellow students, the Art Department circulated original posters, which were made by the silk screen process, throughout the school to stimulate further the buying of War Stamps. This was followed by the drawing of large graphs placed in the lobby to show the results of Weaver's participation.

The Art-Crafts Club Supply Store, opened a year ago, eventually will be enlarged to accommodate the entire student body with various indispensable school supplies. Undoubtedly, this will be an added convenience for those who work, or who would otherwise make a special trip downstreet. Patronizing our store is both thrifty and patriotic, for our profits buy more bonds.

Although at present club members gather voluntarily during their free school periods to roll bandages for the Municipal Hospital, previously regular club meetings were set aside especially so that all might participate in this indirect war activity, an urgent community need.

Also, in connection with war service, after studying briefly the general principles of map-making and camouflage, the club members began actual three dimensional map projects to test and develop their techniques for camouflage.

From the many enthusiastic letters of former Weaver students now in active service, the Art Department realizes more each passing day that certain specific skills acquired here have been useful in aiding them to fill an important place in the armed forces. Art training, too, is essential in war time.

Mr. Waring and His Assistants

Boys' Commercial Club

The Boys' Commercial Club has dedicated itself to service during the war emergency. In addition to being in charge of the sale of War Bonds and Stamps at Weaver, its members take assignments to those students who have been absent. No officers were elected for the year.

Camera Club

The activities of the Camera Club were limited this year to several photograph contests. Best pictures were chosen in the field of landscape, action, etc. Officers were:

President Israel Kosovsky
Vice-President Elisha Freedman
Secretary Herb Kane
Treasurer Sidney Turner
Faculty Adviser Mr. Van Schaack

Chess Club

Although the clubs at Weaver have centered their activities on service, the Chess Club has managed to take some time for recreation. Many intra-mural tournaments have been held as well as contests with other schools. The Chess Club has enjoyed a fairly successful season. Officers for this year were:

President Gerard Siek
Vice-President Alex Berman
Treasurer Albert Stoltz
Sec'y. and Tournament Director Jay Raeben

Girls' League

The executive board of the Girls' League has aided greatly in the launching of the Victory Corps. Members have given generously of their time to this effort. The board includes:

President	Marie Moriarty
1st Vice-President	Barbara Carey
2nd Vice-President	Bette Askinas
Secretary	Marion Walch
Treasurer	Dorothy Maines
Senior Member	Constance Malley
Junior Member	Peggy Blumenthal
Sophomore Member	Betty Anderson

Honor Society

The Honor Society, in fulfilling one of its aims, service, has organized tutoring and college room committees. The former has aided students who have had difficulty with some study. The latter was in charge of the college room and kept it open to those interested in reading various catalogues. The officers were:

President	Gerard Siek
Vice-President	John Lombardo
Secretary	Betty Summers
Treasurer	Mr. Stanley
Faculty Adviser	Mr. Burke

Dramatic Club

Dimouts and gasoline rationing have made it necessary for the Dramatic Club to abandon its annual production. It is, however, going on with the important work of keeping the members in trim for future presentations. Each week a group of the club puts on a short play for the rest of the members. The group then holds a period of criticism and discussion, always striving for self-improvements. This year the officers were:

President	John McNulty
V.-President and Treas.	Elizabeth Rockwell
Secretary	Althea Greenwald
Faculty Advisers	Mr. Crowell, and Miss Sheehan

WARS . . .

Officers and Directors

Seated: Previtali, Poritz, J. Biederman, Coppinger, Susman.

Second Row: Sodafsky, Summers, Kaprove, Falvey, Noble, DuBrow, Meltzer.

Back Row: Miss Case, Mr. Carrier, Miss Chapman.

At 2:30 o'clock every afternoon the members of the Rationing Board at 128 Allyn Street eagerly await the arrival of ten members of the Weaver Auxiliary Rationing Squadron with their Sergeant and Corporal detailed to work there for the afternoon. These girls have enthusiastically volunteered to give their services in filing applications and issuing books for the various rationed commodities. They are always cheerful and willing to work, and their giving up of a few hours of recreation which they would ordinarily have had every afternoon has allowed some men and women to do urgent war work.

The following seniors participated in the WARS:

Selma DuBrow, Rena Meltzer, Betty Summers, Annrita Mitchell, Agnes Azarian, Bernice Brightman, Arline Epstein, Esther Norwitz, Jeanette Brody, Henrietta Goldman, Shirley Singer, Annette Bieber, Bernice Marholin, Ruth Kaprove, Frances Bushman, Gertrude Katz, Iolanda Romano, Gertrude Weiner, Roslyn Winick, Sibby Youlovsky, Shirley Glazer, Sylvia Weiner, Judith Spëctor, and Estelle Meister, Record Clerk.

War Bonds and Stamps

91.2% on March 25th!

99.8% on April 15!

Total—$42,402.35

There are times for serious thoughts! This is one. We owe a debt of gratitude to those through whose efforts we have been given the privilege to support our brothers in arms in the fight for freedom. War stamp corsages do more than decorate our buttonholes. They assure us that Weaver High School will not someday be decorated with the flags of the Third Reich. Stamps mean bonds, and bonds mean the sound of the "Stars and Stripes Forever" forever in our ears. On March 25, Weaver attained the goal of over 90% participation in the purchasing of Stamps and Bonds.

The Portal has not tried to cover all student activities in connection with the war effort. Each day has brought new responsibilities and an eager acceptance of additional duties.

Airplane Spotters

The editors have selected outstanding examples of student participation to reflect the Weaver spirit. In mentioning names, the editors have included those of seniors only. The other classes have responded in the same loyal and patriotic spirit.

Weaver Scrap Drive

Airplane Spotters

There is no greater satisfaction for high school fellows and girls today, than to feel that they are doing something concrete to help win this war. Our airplane spotters are always on the job to do their bit for Uncle Sam as they watch for planes. They have become skilled in identifying planes and observing their altitude, number of motors, and the direction in which they are flying. Those who belong to the Connecticut State Guard, whose members are always ready to meet all emergencies, have done their bit by participating in a military training and service program. Another group is getting the satisfaction of knowing that they can and must help the people in their neighborhood, with risk to their own lives, in time of any possible air attack. These are the air raid wardens. Yes, all of these people are loyally, patriotically putting Uncle Sam's needs and desires before their own for the ultimate goal—freedom and liberty for all.

Lunchroom Monitors

"Let thy conscience be thy guide." If this doesn't work, the lunchroom monitor is there to play the part of the wee small voice. It's not much fun eating over the remains of someone else's dinner or writing a theme that is destined to be punctuated with mustard!

Monitor, is this a dream,
Is the table really clean?
Yes, dear teacher, but there's trouble you see,
The cleaner-upper is always me!
Don't worry, we appreciate it.

Community Service Groups

Along with the gigantic war effort have come those little jobs, all of which play their part in the endeavor. Waste, ally of the enemy, is being combatted by the Scrap Committee and by those helping with the various relief drives. Soon many of us will be receiving that paper which reads, "The President of the United States sends you greetings." The draft board assistants helped in expediting those papers to reach their destinations. And who can overlook the helpers of "the greatest mother of all," the Red Cross? Long may they save!

War Rationing

Using Blue Stamps Wisely

Each time there has been a request for Weaver students to help in the various rationing processes, there has always been a great response. Under the guidance of the very able Mr. Carrier, students have been instructed on how to issue the rationing books, tailor the fuel oil ration coupons, and assist at the Weaver Fuel Oil Computation Center.

Issued Book 2: Ruth Ratner, Phyllis Mottram, Sylvia Nassau, Carmelo Partesano, Ruth Tuck, Althea Greenwald, Alex Berman, Dana Darling, Max Galinsky, Cyril Smith, Evelyn Weiner, Robert Schmidt, Arline Mischel, Shirley Epstein, Dorothy Maines, Abraham Goldfarb, Selma Sondik, Ada Maislen, Selma Moses, Bernard White, Dorothy Friedman, Anne Blum, Arlene Epstein, Gerald Okrant, Thelma Bloom, Marie Moriarty, Shirley Ginsberg, Betty Rockwell, Robert Maloney, Albert Stoltz, Irving Jones, Lewis Sheketoff, Howard Werner, Gerard Siek, Allan Walch, Maurice Shechter, Sidney Bogin, Edward Herbert, Edward Bernard, Burton Cohen, Seymour Black, Nancy Goldenthal, Lester Neiditz, Benson Levine, Jerry Nisselbaum, Jean Kaufman, Evelyn Lassman, Edward Gipstein, Bernice Brightman, Estelle Meister.

Computation Center: Selma DuBrow, Ruth Kaprove, Annrita Mitchell, Rena Meltzer, Joyce Shientop, Betty Summers, Shirley Singer.

Bluebirds

With doctors and nurses being called away every day to the theaters of war, high schools girls have volunteered their services to the hospitals to help do the work around the hospital that is so necessary but yet does not require any definite medical knowledge. They are helpful in various ways, such as making up supper trays, washing and wiping dishes, and many other duties that would ordinarily fall on the limited nursing force. All the girls work for the blue pin which they get after two weeks of service, and some even intend to stay for as long as two years to earn their white stripe.

Among this patriotic group are these seniors: Gloria Weiss, Evelyn Weiner, June Vogel, Dorothy Maines, Lola Lewin, Marie Moriarty.

Nurses' Aids

Projection Squad

Mr. Parks and "His Boys"

Projection Squad: Carmelo Partesano, Robert Schmidt, Gerard Siek, Richard Siek, Robert Twiss, Allan Walch.

Yippee, we miss geometry—movies! While we utter screams of delight, the projection squad is working hard to get things ready for the show. During air raid drills the comforting voice of Mr. Burke comes to us through the efforts of the squad, keepers of the loud-speaker system. They are at the beck and call of Hartford, ready to render service at any time and for any occasion, sometimes operating unfamiliar projectors—and all gratis. Don't think they are amateurs. Every Friday they learn more about projecting as well as planning their very full schedule for the week. They find time also to do their part for the war effort by putting on shows for machine shop courses, air raid wardens, and other Civilian Defense groups. We are indeed grateful and proud of Weaver's expert cameramen.

Acknowledgments

Now that "The Portal" is completed we fully realize that its production was possible only through the efforts of many others besides "The Portal" editorial and business board members.

From the lofty, northern corner of the building has come a welcome procession of designs, sketches, and caricatures from the able hands of: Anne Blum, Bertha Orentlich, Beverly Epstein, Donald Vaccari, Leonard Killeen, Fred Bloom, Thomas Leddy, Francis Rossi, Virginia Kusner, Phyllis Mottram, Eunice Montstream, Eda Mecca, Clara Rodgers, Jennie DeMeo, Elizabeth Skripol, Beatrice Echenique, Thelma Sailor, and Doris Maycock.

Out of the ever-observing cameras of Max Galinsky and Leon Darefsky have come many an excellent photograph to grace an otherwise empty "Portal" page. In these times when film is almost as scarce as gasoline, and photoflash bulbs definitely extinct, we especially appreciate the work of these two young men.

A word of thanks is certainly in order for "Cy" Smith, who has assisted many a Portal Board member in wrestling with a difficult "write-up."

To Jack Brown, the representative of the engraving and printing company, who patiently arranged our scrambled copy into printable form, and to Mr. Larrabee and Mr. Cunningham, without whose efforts "The Portal" would never have matured, we offer our deepest thanks.

To those whom we have mentioned and also to all whose "by lines" have gone unrecorded, we of the "Portal" Board say once more "thanks a lot—and thanks again!"
